this morning. Family came in and stated she's been weak the last couple of days." The family transported Tenant C1 to a local hospital.

Tenant C1's progress notes revealed an entry on the morning of 5/03/26, when staff documented they tried to get the tenant up but she kept saying she was tired. The next entry was dated 5/30/26, noting Tenant C1 no longer resided at the program. There was no documentation of weakness or any change in condition on or around 5/16/26.

Tenant C1's 30- day assessment dated 3/31/26 indicated she could ambulate independently with her walker. She needed full assistance with bathing/showering, physical assistance with dressing and occasional assistance to change her incontinence brief. The assessment further indicated there were no concerns with skin problems, such as inflammation, redness or rash.

Review of Tenant C1's hospital records revealed she presented at the emergency department (ED) on the morning of 5/16/26 with her daughter. The ED notes indicated Tenant C1 had weakness and her gait was abnormal. She had right-sided weakness, right foot drag and a shuffling gait. She also had an excoriated bottom/perineum. Family reported symptoms began about one week prior with significant worsening over past 2-3 days. According to hospital records, Tenant C1 was admitted to the hospital and discharged on 5/19/26. Her principal diagnosis at discharge was UTI (urinary tract infection), with other diagnosis including TIA (transient ischemic attack) and dementia.

During interview on 9/16/26 at 10:45 a.m. with Tenant C1's daughter, she said she visited her

The daughter questioned staff, who told her Tenant C1 went to bed the day before and had refused to get out of bed. This was unusual. The daughter assisted her mother up and gave her a shower. She noted her mother seemed weaker than usual. When the daughter visited Tenant C1 on the afternoon of 9/15/26 she noticed her mother didn't seem her usual self. The tenant had difficulty walking, was leaning to the right and dragging her right foot. The daughter talked with staff who told her the tenant had been in bed since lunch time. Staff said they had to walk with her that day, which was unusual. When the daughter visited Tenant C1 on the morning of 5/16/26, she saw her mother had difficulty walking and was still dragging her right foot. The daughter physically assisted her mother to a wheelchair and transported her to the hospital emergency room. During interview on 9/16/26 at 10:30 a.m. the Executive Director (ED) confirmed the lack of documentation related to Tenant C1's change of condition regarding ambulation and excoriated buttocks/perineum. The ED stated staff did not inform her of these concerns at the time.	A 268
